

Rev. Matt Roever, M.S.

Profile

Matt Roever is an ordained minister, with an M.S. degree from Southwestern Assemblies of God University, Waxahachie, Texas. With a family line of ministers, Matt has experience in ministry ranging from the pulpit to serving as an adjunct professor with S.A.G.U., as well as Academic Dean of Operation Warrior RECONnect, an outreach of the Roever Evangelistic Association. Matt is the originator of the O.W.R. curriculum for higher education, and director of Eagles Summit Ranch Texas, near San Antonio. Matt has served in various missions trips and has done several tours of the war zones in Iraq and Afghanistan, as well as U.S. Forces Korea, alongside the President of R.E.A., Dave Roever. He has worked with U.S. military wounded warriors from Iraq and Afghanistan since 2007. This experience is added to the fact that he himself is the son of a wounded warrior – he knows the struggle and the victory!

Matt is married to the love of his life, Jaime. They have two sons, and reside in the great state of Texas. Matt is also a Marathon runner and Ironman finisher, and an avid outdoorsman, loving to combine ministry outreach with the love of God's creation.

Matt's strongest suit is as a minister of the Gospel. He delivers a powerful message of the Word of God, hope and restoration, using poignant examples from his life, as well as staggering experiences from America's young warriors, vividly illustrating the points of his message.

With a heart for God and people, Matt Roever will serve your congregation well.
